The things that worked well for me this assignment was being able to reference things off the internet. It really helped me to see how the code worked and I was able to understand it and translate it into my own code.

The thing that didn't work well for the assignment was trying to interpret some of the code online. It was a little hard to follow especially when the don't use the same functions as you and most of them, I noticed, were all using integer arrays, which wasn't useful to me at all.

I didn't really need much help for this assignment. It was a pretty straight forward assignment. All I needed help on was trying to visualize how these sort processes were working.

I learned about the efficiency of the sorts because of the timer that was included in the assignment. It was cool to see how fast some of the sorts were.
